Hello everyone.

This looks like it needs to be a conversation we can continue at our next board meeting on December 3rd.

Thank you,

Tina

Subject: Re: Complaint Process

I'm fine with this change or with Kelly's suggestion. I am not convinced that it needs to be in the Bylaws. Bylaws Section 4 lays out the expulsion, suspension, and reinstatement of board members. A complaint process seems more appropriate in the OPS manual to me. I can be convinced otherwise if there are examples of a complaint process in other organization bylaws.

I agree with use of "concern" or "issue". I think that as this is essentially a new procedure and therefore apt to be fine-tuned down the road that placing it in the Ops manual for now is better. Since changing the Ops manual is less formal/cumbersome... Perhaps the procedure could reference the applicable ByLaw noting it would kick in if the Board feels removal is potentially necessary.

I would prefer not to use the term "alleged misconduct". The complaint may not rise to that term. I would replace with "concern" or "issue." Otherwise, I like it. I defer whether it would be more appropriate in the bylaws or the ops manual.

Good morning all (at least it is in AZ!)

As per our discussion at the Fall board meeting, below is the draft procedure for handling complaints, with the slight changes that were identified.

I am still of the opinion that this should be added to the Bylaws. If that is the direction we choose to go, once approved this would pend until the next annual Business meeting in Omaha.

Let me know what you all think as to how to move forward.

Thanks.

Nicole

Procedure for Handling Complaints against Board Members and Subcommittee Chairs

A complaint against a member of the Board of Directors or a non-Board member serving as a subcommittee chair can be submitted by a member of NACM. As a general rule, complaints shall be submitted in writing (email is acceptable) to the current NACM President or President-Elect. Oral complaints are discouraged but may be considered when appropriate. All complaints must identify the Board Member or subcommittee chair and clearly identify the alleged misconduct. All complaints must contain sufficient information for the Board to investigate the allegation(s). Complaints should also contain the complainant's name, telephone number, and any other contact information the complainant wishes to provide to the Board. Complaints will not be accepted anonymously without prior agreement of the current NACM President or President-Elect.

2024-2025 Report for the NACM Mid-Year Meeting

The NCACC is a member-run, 501(c)(3) non-profit organization established in 1973 to serve the specific educational and training needs of appellate court clerks. Our mission is to improve professional competence and knowledge, to serve as a repository of information on the operation of appellate court clerk's offices, and to support full and fair access to the appellate court system. Our membership consists of over 200 clerks and deputy clerks (or those serving in equivalent capacities with different titles) from state and federal appellate courts, as well as several international and tribal appellate courts.

Today's appellate courts face many challenges, such as the need for transparency and accountability, balancing the competing interests of personal privacy and public access, implementing new technologies to increase accuracy and efficiency, and adopting best practices to serve the court, the litigants, and the public. We help our members meet those challenges through educational programs, publications, listserv participation (recent topics have included court docket call language, artificial intelligence, data retention, courtroom use policies, and court commission member tracking), website information, and committee work.

The NCACC's 52nd annual meeting and educational conference will be held from August 3-7, 2025, in Albuquerque, New Mexico. The conference will provide clerks with an invaluable opportunity to hear from speakers and attend training sessions that are directly relevant to their daily responsibilities. There will be a vendor show to demonstrate the latest in appellate court technology and other support services for appellate courts. For states with continuing legal education requirements, members can usually obtain all their needed credits by attending the conference programs. We are also planning a mid-year remote conference in April to connect with our members halfway through the year for a program on Active Listening.

Our committees are currently hard at work in support of the organization, providing members with ample opportunities to communicate and support one another. We look forward to another productive year as we prepare to gather in Albuquerque.

Sincerely,

Douglas T. Shima President, NCACC

Ms. Tina Mattison

President, National Association for Court Management

Via Email: tina@nacmnet.org

Dear Ms. Mattison:

On behalf of the National Conference of Bankruptcy Clerks (NCBC), I am pleased to submit the following information for your board meeting.

The NCBC currently has over 1,200 members, primarily consisting of Clerks of Court and Deputy Clerks from U.S. Bankruptcy Courts. Our mission is to foster leadership, education, and advocacy within our membership, while also providing solutions to support their professional growth and development.

Each year, we host an educational conference for our members. In 2024, the conference took place in Boston, MA, with approximately 525 attendees. Looking ahead, our 2025 conference will be held from August 26–28 in Fort Worth, TX. The conference agenda is designed to provide members with both job-specific training and opportunities for personal development. For example, our 2024 conference featured tracks on Electronic Public Access and administrative topics.

In addition to the annual conference, NCBC offers a four-month leadership development program, known as the LEAD Academy. This program is designed for up to 30 participants in non-managerial roles who are looking to develop the leadership skills needed to advance within the courts. Participants are paired with volunteer mentors and engage in online training, culminating in an all-day workshop held in conjunction with our annual conference. This year, 26 members successfully completed the LEAD Academy.

NCBC also advocates on behalf of its members in various ways, including offering a benefits program to supplement the benefits provided by the federal judiciary, and awarding scholarships to members pursuing further education. Our most recent initiative was a disaster relief fundraiser aimed at assisting federal judiciary employees—both members and non-members—who were impacted by Hurricanes Helene and Milton. Through this effort, NCBC was able to support 11 employees who experienced significant losses.

Thank you for the opportunity to share this summary with your board. I encourage your members to visit our website at www.ncbcweb.com for further details about our organization and its initiatives. Please do not hesitate to reach out if there are any collaborative opportunities that may benefit both of our organizations.

Sincerely,

Stephanie J. Butler

National Consortium on Racial and Ethnic Fairness in the Courts

January 2025

The Consortium is a national network committed to advancing equity in the administration of justice to all and promoting public trust and confidence in state courts. The Consortium board of directors is racially diverse and includes appellate and trial court judges, administrators, lawyers, and social scientists. The board represent courts from large urban areas to the most rural areas in the nation.

On occasion the Consortium has hosted webinars on relevant topics, but our primary venue for sharing and exchanging information and ideas is through our annual conference. The Consortium conference will be April 13-16 2025, in Providence, Rhode Island. The content of this year's conference is exceptional. Pulitzer-Prize winning author Isabel Wilkerson will be speaking on her book Caste the Origins of our Discontents, along with civil rights attorney, educator and author Margret Burnham, her book By Hands now known: Jim Crows Legal Executioners.

Deborah Ramirez, a criminal justice expert will also be speaking. Other sessions will cover data collection, jury diversity, court fines, fees and fairness, reentry simulation along with other topics.

At our annual conference attendee states are invited to report on innovative programs and initiatives through the conference session "Report of the States." This session provides an opportunity to share best practices. Contact Nikiesha Cosby (ncosby@ncsc.org) at the National Center for State Courts if you would like to participate in this session.

REPORT OF CCJSCA TO NACM

On behalf of our members, I thank you for the opportunity to provide a report from the Council of Chief Judges of the State Courts of Appeal ("CCJSCA"). We are pleased to advise that our organization is as a strong as ever. At the current time, we have membership from all 42 states that have an intermediate court of appeals, along with the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. While retaining membership is at times a challenge, we believe that there is great value for intermediate appellate courts to belong to CCJSCA in light of the educational and networking opportunities we offer. And given that chief judges often rotate in the intermediate courts, our membership includes many former chief judges who remain very active in the organization and serve to mentor new chief judges.

We recently held our 45th annual conference in Monterey, California, from November 12-16. This conference had record attendance, which speaks to the continuing high caliber of our educational programs, as well as our growing membership. We have been fortunate to receive a grant from SJI to defer conference expenses this year, as well as contributions from other national organizations such as ABOTA. Plans are already underway for our 2025 conference which will be held October 12-16 in Washington, D.C. and will focus on the theme of "Equal Justice Under Law."

In addition to our annual conferences, we offer other educational and networking activities to our members, including our newsletter, the "Chief Brief"; our "Chief Chats," which provide videoconferencing on various subjects of interest to appellate judges; and video "Great Educational Moments (GEMS)" on our website. The most recent "GEM" was presented by Stephen Benesh, the current President of the Texas Bar Association, on "Leadership – Ted Lasso Style." Our website also provides Discussion Groups where members can pose questions to solicit input from other members on a variety of topics relating to the administration of their courts. Our members have been actively engaged in committees through the use of regular Zoom meetings.

As is true for your organization, CCJSCA remains committed to providing equal access to justice to the citizens of the states that we are privileged to serve. Thank you again for your interest in, and work with, our organization.

Frankie J. Moore, Judge Nebraska Court of Appeals CCJSCA President 2024-25
