2021 Mid-Year Conference / Webinar Series

The webinar series are ongoing and have had great success with the first two with two remaining, April and May;

- April 22nd in partnership with JTC and CITOC, Why Would You Want To Go Back
- May 20th – Core Session, Purposes of Courts – The Challenges

Each webinar will be two parts, both complimentary to members, and the second session will be an interactive discussion open to members only. Non-members will be charged a nominal fee for the first session on each date.

2021 Annual Conference

Kathy indicated that the Board has voted and NACM is moving forward with an in-person conference. Due to current public health guidelines, registration will be limited. The current guidelines are a maximum capacity of 230. There is the potential that California could open that to more in the middle of June. If that happens, NACM will increase capacity as long as social distancing, state guidelines and hotel mandates are met. Because of the limited capacity, we will also be offering a live streamed event as well. Registration prices of both are still being worked out by the Board at this point. Be on the lookout for an email blast to go out around the first week of May opening registration on a first come first serve basis.

Jude and Kathy have completed the draft agenda and are contacting speakers. Currently there will be two plenaries and breakout sessions of three. In addition we will have the usual receptions, social events and the Fun Run/Walk.

Val, Jude and Kathy answered all questions regarding the logistics of moving ahead.

Other Business

NACM Board members on the call highlighted their respective committees.

Next Meeting – Tuesday, May 11th at 2:00 p.m., E.T.
